Information About Community Property – PLEASE READ BEFORE CONTINUING

➤ Property that was accumulated between the marriage date & separation date is still considered to be "community property" and must be treated in this manner in a divorce settlement, EVEN if the questionable asset/debt is in one name only. Just because the asset/debt is in one name does not mean it automatically belongs to that party. However, during the final agreement you can settle on who will take the responsibility of the asset/debt no matter whose name is listed on the asset/debt.

THERE IS NO COMMUNITY PROPERTY KNOWN.
